NEWS AND VIEWS . . .

And What Have You

By BOB CRAIG

The Pied Pipers will open the fall football season here in Piper Stadium Friday evening against the Winters Blizzards and before what we would like to see — a standing room only crowd.

These youngsters have been working hard for the past three weeks getting ready for this game and they need the support of everyone in Hamlin for this opener.

This will be a young team this year with a lot of sophomores and one freshman on it and they will likely make a lot of mistakes in the early part of the season but from what I have seen they will more than make up for this in desire. They want to win — but they need your support.

They have some good seniors and junior playing to give them the needed leadership, but what they need most of all is a few winning games behind them to jell into a strong ballclub.

So, please, make a special effort to come out to the game Friday and give these youngsters the support they deserve.

Cong. Omar Burleson, in his weekly newsletter this week touches on something this week that seems to us to be one of the major problems facing this nation today. It is, we feel, the main reason we have so many other unsolvable problems facing us today.

Cong. Burleson's newsletter follows:

—Members of Congress returning to Washington this week after an August recess, bring back a common comment. People back home are disturbed about a great many things — inflation, schools, crime and drugs, the war — to mention a few.

Justified or nor, it seems we are mired in an age of disbelief which is eroding our will as a Nation and as individuals, not only to succeed but to survive.

Sons do not believe fathers, blacks do not believe whites and vice versa. Stockholders do not believe corporate executives, and citizens have grave doubts about their government at all levels. Even clergymen are doubted because of the militant acts of a few.

Does this sense of despair and skepticism really mater? It certainly does if we believe that this Country was built on self-confidence, a price in its past and a faith in the future. A great nation without self-confidence is as unlikely to continue its greatness as a businessman who is without determination.

As has been said in this space before, likely Government has promised too much to too many. When these expectations failed to materialize in a short time, many people seem to lack the maturity to deal with adversity.

Black Leaders castigate the whole system of Government as racist because inequalities and prejudices persist. The fact that great comparative gains have been made is overlooked.

Civil Libertarians characterize our Government as "repressive." They ignore all evidence that never in history has there been a freer age than this.

Many of the young disparage society as "unresponsive." The fact is, never has a society been more oriented towards child welfare and the young than today.

In short, there seems to be missing in our society that sense of proportion upon which all good and healthy conditions depend.

Our rivals on the world scene — the Russians and Red Chinese — are able, determined, thirsting, and are evidently endowed with a strong sense of purpose, of destiny, and, yes, patriotism. They have their

Post Office Extends First Class One-Day Service

Postmaster Bobby Crowley, amplifying on a new mail service program recently announced by Washington headquarters, today identified local areas which are to receive overnight delivery of first-class mail originating within the Hamlin area.

Postmaster Crowley said nine areas contiguous to Hamlin will benefit from the next-day deliveries under a new mail service goal announced by Postmaster General Winton M. Blount.

These areas, Postmaster Crowley said, include the following Zip Code areas, 792, 793, 797, 769, 768, 764, 760, and 763 along with the parent area of 795.

Postmaster General Blount on Aug. 26, unveiled the Postal Services new goal of overnight delivery of local area first-class mail deposited by 5 p.m.

"The Postmaster General has pointed out that this program will affect more than half of all first-class letter mail sent in the United States," Postmaster Crowley said. "So customers of every post office in the country will be benefitting from the new service goal."

Substantially more than half of the 52 billion pieces of first-class mail handled annually are for delivery in the city where deposited or in nearby communities.

The areas outlined today by Postmaster Crowley are those within which next-day delivery will be provided for ZIP-Coded first-class mail deposited by 5 p.m. on weekdays in business areas, and at collection points at the local post office.

The Postal Service set Oct. 31 as the deadline for achieving the 95 percent goal.

Pipers To Open Here With Winters Friday

The Pied Pipers will open their football season here Friday evening at 8 p.m. in Piper Stadium against the always strong Winters Blizzards.

Both teams made strong showings last week in scrimmages with Hamlin defeating Aspermont and Winters defeating Breckenridge.

Coach Wright told the Booster Club members that the team needs to win this one to gain their confidence and that they have been working and thinking about Winters since they first started workouts over three weeks ago.

The Pipers scored five times against the outclassed Aspermont Hornets in their scrimmage there last Friday. They rolled up 195 yards on the ground and 173 in the air. Fullback Barry McDonald was the top ground gainer with 84 yards in 11 carries, followed by Halfback Johnny Jones with 57 yards in five carries.

The Pritchetts were graduated from L. I. F. E. Bible College, the denomination's largest ministerial training center located in Los Angeles, California.

During their first few years on the mission field, their labors seemed to bring little results until as they have said, "God was faithful to His Word and souls were born into the kingdom."

Costa Rica is a progressive country and has moved from the land of the "oxcart" to the land of progress and achievement in almost every field. It is a land where school teachers outnumber soldiers and literacy moves forward in gigantic steps. This has brought efforts for the gospel to an all time high.

Mr. and Mrs. Pritchett supervise the Foursquare work in the country of Costa Rica where there are 47 churches and meeting places, 1 Bible school, 2 radio broadcasts and 52 national workers.

The Pritchetts will be showing color slides and will have artifacts from Costa Rica on display at the service which will be open to the public.

FROM THE FILES . . .

FORTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
(September 7, 1928)

The readers of the Herald will notice in this week's paper the announcement of the Offield Furniture Company.

The Wilson building is to be his Hamlin place of business. This house has been overhauled and the furniture side fixed especially for big display, with balcony and other features.

The Herald takes this opportunity to tell our visitors how much Hamlin people appreciate the wonderful spirit of friendship and congeniality that was evident everywhere at the Jubilee here last Friday. Hamlin had ample police force but few were needed. There was not reported a single car wreck or case of theft and only a few cases of "too much extract," one little fight. Hamlin likes her neighbors and some day she's 'a gonta' pull another big'un. Listen for it.

If you count crowds, and a perfect day as marks of success, Hamlin should be patted on the back for the part she played as host to our neighbors on last Friday when we celebrated in honor of the discovery of oil and the coming of gas to this community.

As per schedule, Hamlin firms put on a good parade at ten-thirty that morning. This part of the program was especially enjoyed, however, the Post Kid Band failed to get here as per schedule. They started in plenty of time but got in mud holes between Rotan and Clairmont, but they finally arrived about 12 o'clock.

In the parade was a float from the farm of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Palmer. It represented everything grown on their farm, and that meant one of the finest display ever seen on Hamlin's street. Vegetable, fresh and canned, fruits, cotton, maize peanuts, chickens, eggs, butter, milk, pretty white pigs — all going to prove that Hamlin's greatest wealth depends on the oil discovery, lies on the farm. Yes, this float won first prize.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
(September 14, 1951)

Bids on Anson's proposed new municipal hospital will be opened Friday at the city hall in the county seat.

Bids were first called for in February, but all submitted were rejected because of high estimates for the construction.

A report upon the completion of the new migratory labor camp and the appointment of a permanent custodian of the property will be among the subjects to come before the monthly meeting of the Hamlin Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday morning at 8:30 p.m.

The meeting will be held in the office of the secretary, Mrs. E. M. Wilson, and will be presided over by Carl T. Murrell, president.

An increase in the subscription price of The Hamlin Herald from $2 to $2.50 per year will become effective October 1. Papers mailed outside the first zone will increase from $2.50 to $3.00 per year.

At the same time October 1, newsstand prices of The Hamlin Herald will increase from five cents to 10 cents. Subscribers who desire to renew their subscriptions, or persons who desire to become subscribers before the close of business September 30 may enjoy the old price of $2 per year but the money must be in the mails or received before October 1.

TEN YEARS AGO
(September 14, 1961)

Plans are now underway for the seventh annual Homecoming for exes of the Hamlin Schools to be held October 6 and 7.

According to a spokesman for the planning committee, it is hoped that all exes of the Hamlin Schools will start making plans now to attend and will urge others to "talk Homecoming" so that together we might make this the best homecoming ever.

The first bale of cotton for the Hamlin Gin was ginned Monday about 1 p.m. at the Hamlin Farmers Coop Gin, according to a report from Watt Fletcher, gin manager.

A. J. Dipple, whose farm is located north of the bridge between here and Old Glory, brought in the 2,150 lbs. of cotton which ginned out a 530 lb. bale.

Dipple was first in the area to bring in a bale of cotton last year.

The Hamlin freshman football team will open their season here tonight with the freshman of Colorado City.

Game time is set for 7:30.

And What Have You
By BOB CRAIG

problems, no doubt about that, but their national and international goals and ambitions appear to be intact, uneaten by the cancer of disbelief.

No suggestion or even inference is being made that we should blindly trust all the cliches and slogans which constantly bombard us — it is our inherent right, duty and responsibility to seek truth on which to base our trust. In fact, the acceptance of "everyone knows" such and such may be contributing to our disturbance. A recent development may be a good example. Since Rachel Carson's book "Silent Spring" "everyone has known" that DDT is an awful thing. Now Mr. Philip Handler, President of the prestigious National Academy of Sciences says that no harm to humans has been proved and "the tales of damage to fish and wildlife appear to have been woefully exaggerated." A dozen or so top ranking scientists support this opinion. In this instance "what everyone knows" is wrong. The application can doubtless be made in many other correct situations.

Ben Johnson once observed that "next to truth, a confirmed error does well."

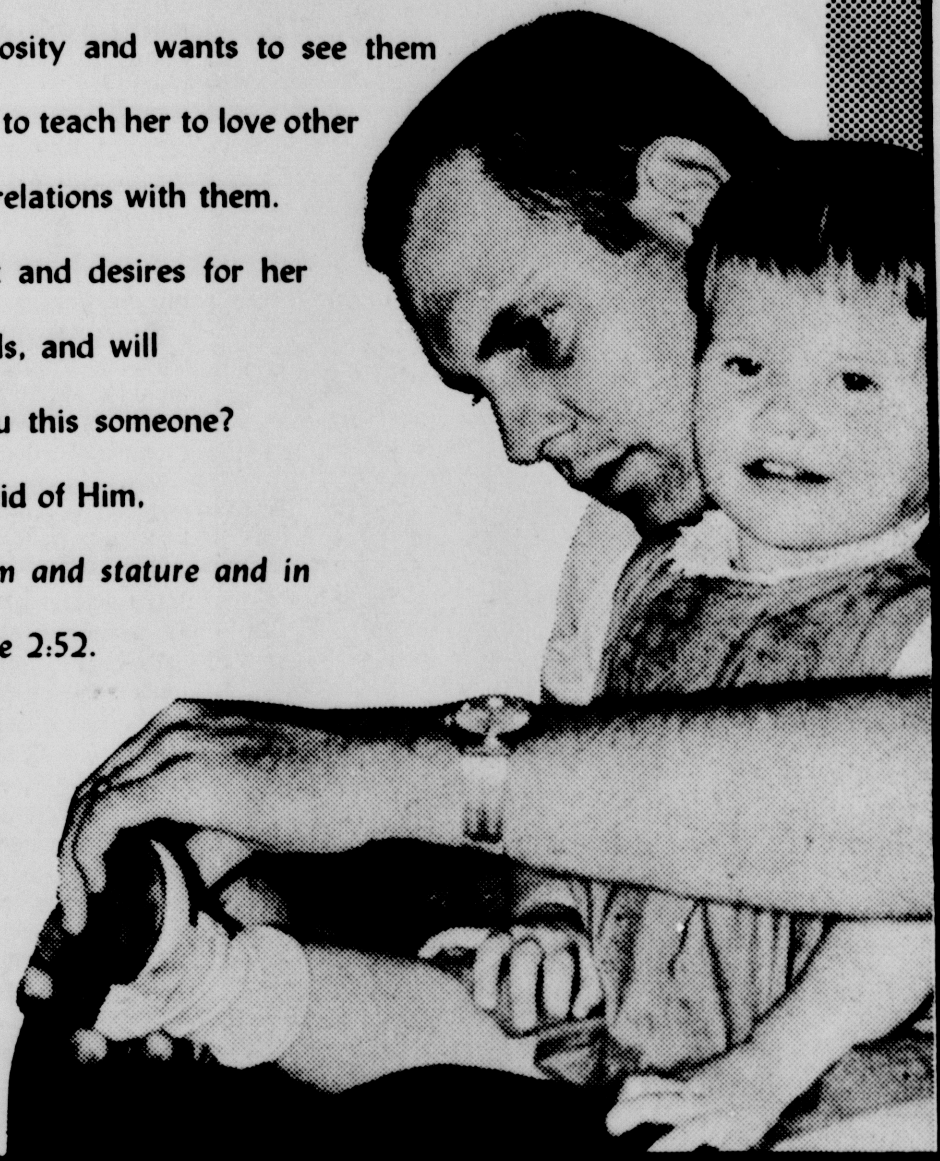

Back to our doubts, fears and distrust, just maybe we need to recapture what seems to be our last innocence. Putting it another way, maybe our sophistication has run away with us.

Referring to us as a nation, Emerson said, "We should have reached a maturity to prove that we are capable of listening, not only to what the hours tell us, but what centuries whisper."

SOMEBODY CARES

It is so important that someone cares about how this child grows up. Someone cares that she is clothed and fed and loved. Someone cares that she goes to school and grows in mind as well as body. Someone cares about her childhood wonder and curiosity and wants to see them satisfied. Someone cares enough to teach her to love other people and will help her in her relations with them. Someone cares about her spirit and desires for her the highest ideals and standards, and will help her to know God. Are you this someone? Let it be said of her as it was said of Him. "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man." Luke 2:52.

TO CHURCH
THIS WEEK

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Plants and
Home Decor

Use living plants as decorative aids in your home. Plants with rich coloring and textures often makes the difference between an attractive room and an outstanding one. Certainly, growing plants create an air of vitality, and give a feeling of care to any room in which they are used. But more than that, they can also be used to emphasize or soften certain things about a room.

If choosing the right plants for the right situations has you puzzled, here are some suggestions:
North windows: Dieffenbachia, Peperomia or Philodendron. These plants do best away from direct sunlight.
South windows: Ageratum, Coleus, Lilies, Cacti. Full light is the main requisite for these plants.
East and west windows: Caladium, Dracaena, Ferns, Fuchsia.
If your particular decorating situation will impose poor conditions of temperature, light or moisture, here are some of the more rugged varieties to try: Coleus, Dieffenbachia, Dracaena, Philodendron or Palms.

The gardenia, a perennial cottage favorite, makes up into a dramatic and handsome centerpiece, according to floral designers. Other popular arrangements which go from table to shoulder in an interesting double-play include the spectacular carnation in all its brilliant shades, and the delicate yet commanding red, red rose.
The chrysanthemum, "first flower of Fall," is probably the most popular "double-duty." Available in a wide variety of colors and varieties

Neinda Philosopher Is Aghast At Viet Nam Rule Against Handshaking

Editor's note: The Neinda Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Route One discovers a peculiar custom in use in Viet Nam.

Dear editor:

I was reading along in a newspaper last night not thinking much about what I was reading, you know, like a man listening to his wife carrying on a conversation with him while his mind is on tomorrow, when I hit a paragraph that made me sit bolt upright.

According to it, when you're campaigning for office in Viet Nam you can't shake hands with more than five people in one place without risking getting arrested for disturbing the peace.

That's exactly what it said, and I believe it's worse than the other practice they have over there, you know, looking up your opponent if you win the election. After all, it's sort of a universal habit not to care much what happens to a defeated candidate, regardless of what country he gets beat in. How many defeated candidates for Vice President can you name?

But can you imagine what would happen to a candidate in the United States if he was limited to five handshakes in one place?

I have never understood it, but it's pretty well established that the candidate who shakes the most hands gets the most votes, makes no difference what office he's running for or whatever other qualifications the office demands. An American running in Viet Nam, left handclasp-less, would collapse in frustration from sheer lack of a platform.

Has Congress looked into the matter of how many returning Viet Nam veterans have picked up this no-handshaking habit?

It may be allright to Vietnamize Viet Nam, but you introduce that handshake limitation over here and you'll wreck our political system.

In fact, the handshake is such an effective medium for getting elected, even more effective than television which charges big for its services, that I don't see why the voters don't catch on and cash in on it. Charge say 15 cents per handshake, and double if he gets to you twice at the same rally.

Why should the most effective medium for getting elected, owned entirely by the people, allow candidates to use its services scott free?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

NEWS FROM ... Sylvester

By MRS. R. M. BABB

Here it is Sept. 6, 1971, Labor Day and one of the hottest days we have had in several weeks. We might have a cloud before the day is over.

Mrs. Delia Beard and the John Tankersley families of Ft. Worth have been spending some time in the Ernest Kiser, E. P. Harris and Pearl Johnson homes.

The Bartley family of Odessa recently spent some time in the Fred Turner home.

The Max Deel family of Levelland visited in the W. B. Brown home as well as in the Deel home in Roby.

Mr. Cliff Early spent some time in Hamlin hospital recently. Do hope he is much better.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson and sons from Duncanville visited in the W. M. Lawlis home here and in the Johnson home of Hamlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lewis Maberry of Stephenville visited over Labor Day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Thompson and with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Albert Maberry.

I just want to warn all of our citizens that our intersections are grown up with weeds and it is very hard to see just what is coming. So please stay on your side of the road, and stop, even though you feel you have the right of way. We had a smash-up this afternoon. Nothing too serious but could have been.

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Cross have bought his father's old house from the Doziers and is moving in just south of the A. J. Hill home on highway 1085. We are hoping they will move over here from Longworth.

FROM THE FILES . . .

FORTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
(September 7, 1928)

The readers of the Herald will notice in this week's paper the announcement of the Offield Furniture Company.

The Wilson building is to be his Hamlin place of business. This house has been overhauled and the furniture side fixed especially for big display, with balcony and other features.

The Herald takes this opportunity to tell our visitors how much Hamlin people appreciate the wonderful spirit of friendship and congeniality that was evident everywhere at the Jubilee here last Friday. Hamlin had ample police force but few were needed. There was not reported a single car wreck or case of theft and only a few cases of "too much extract," one little fight. Hamlin likes her neighbors and some day she's 'a gonta' pull another big'un. Listen for it.

If you count crowds, and a perfect day as marks of success, Hamlin should be patted on the back for the part she played as host to our neighbors on last Friday when we celebrated in honor of the discovery of oil and the coming of gas to this community.

As per schedule, Hamlin firms put on a good parade at ten-thirty that morning. This part of the program was especially enjoyed, however, the Post Kid Band failed to get here as per schedule. They started in plenty of time but got in mud holes between Rotan and Clairmont, but they finally arrived about 12 o'clock.

In the parade was a float from the farm of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Palmer. It represented everything grown on their farm, and that meant one of the finest display ever seen on Hamlin's street. Vegetable, fresh and canned, fruits, cotton, maize peanuts, chickens, eggs, butter, milk, pretty white pigs — all going to prove that Hamlin's greatest wealth despite the oil discovery, lies on the farm. Yes, this float won first prize.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
(September 14, 1951)

Bids on Anson's proposed new municipal hospital will be opened Friday at the city hall in the county seat.

Bids were first called for in February, but all submitted were rejected because of high estimates for the construction.

A report upon the completion of the new migratory labor camp and the appointment of a permanent custodian of the property will be among the subjects to come before the monthly meeting of the Hamlin Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday morning at 8:30 p.m.

The meeting will be held in the office of the secretary, Mrs. E. M. Wilson, and will be presided over by Carl T. Murrell, president.

An increase in the subscription price of The Hamlin Herald from $2 to $2.50 per year will become effective October 1. Papers mailed outside the first zone will increase from $2.50 to $3.00 per year.

At the same time October 1, newsstand prices of The Hamlin Herald will increase from five cents to 10 cents. Subscribers who desire to renew their subscriptions, or persons who desire to become subscribers before the close of business September 30 may enjoy the old price of $2 per year but the money must be in the mails or received before October 1.

TEN YEARS AGO
(September 14, 1961)

Plans are now underway for the seventh annual Homecoming for exes of the Hamlin Schools to be held October 6 and 7.

According to a spokesman for the planning committee, it is hoped that all exes of the Hamlin Schools will start making plans now to attend and will urge others to "talk Homecoming" so that together we might make this the best homecoming ever.

The first bale of cotton for the Hamlin Gin was ginned Monday about 1 p.m. at the Hamlin Farmers Coop Gin, according to a report from Watt Fletcher, gin manager.

A. J. Dipple, whose farm is located north of the bridge between here and Old Glory, brought in the 2,150 lbs. of cotton which ginned out a 530 lb. bale.

Dipple was first in the area to bring in a bale of cotton last year.

The Hamlin freshman football team will open their season here tonight with the freshman of Colorado City.

Game time is set for 7:30.

Seeking their third win of the season against no losses, the Pipers take on the Merkel Badgers Friday night at 8 p.m. at Merkel. The Badgers will be trying for their first win of the 1961 campaign.

The Pied Piper Booster Club is planning to form a caravan to the game Friday night with those interested meeting at the high school between 6:15 and 6:30.

The Jones County Home Demonstration Clubs won second place and $75 for their educational exhibit on Senior Citizen's at the West Texas State Fair in Abilene.

Plants and Home Decor

Use living plants as decorative aids in your home. Plants with rich coloring and textures often makes the difference between an attractive room and an outstanding one.

Certainly, growing plants create an air of vitality, and give a feeling of care to any room in which they are used. But more than that, they can also be used to emphasize or soften certain things about a room.

Neinda Philosopher Is Aghast At Viet Nam Rule Against Handshaking

Editor's note: The Neinda Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Route One discovers a peculiar custom in use in Viet Nam.

Dear editor:

I was reading along in a newspaper last night not thinking much about what I was reading, you know, like a man listening to his wife carrying on a conversation with him while his mind is on tomorrow, when I hit a paragraph that made me sit bolt upright.

According to it, when you're campaigning for office in Viet Nam you can't shake hands with more than five people in one place without risking getting arrested for disturbing the peace.

That's exactly what it said, and I believe it's worse than the other practice they have over there, you know, looking up your opponent if you win the election. After all, it's sort of a universal habit not to care much what happens to a defeated candidate, regardless of what country he gets beat in. How many defeated candidates for Vice President can you name?

But can you imagine what would happen to a candidate in the United States if he was limited to five handshakes in one place?

I have never understood it, but it's pretty well established that the candidate who shakes the most hands gets the most votes, makes no difference what office he's running for or whatever other qualifications the office demands. An American running in Viet Nam, left handclasp-less, would collapse in frustration from sheer lack of a platform.

Has Congress looked into the matter of how many returning Viet Nam veterans have picked up this no-handshaking habit?

It may be allright to Viet-nameize Viet Nam, but you introduce that handshake limitation over here and you'll wreck our political system.

In fact, the handshake is such an effective medium for getting elected, even more effective than television which charges big for its services, that I don't see why the voters don't catch on and cash in on it. Charge say 15 cents per handshake, and double if he gets to you twice at the same rally.

Why should the most effective medium for getting elected, owned entirely by the people, allow candidates to use its services scott free?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Systems-Built Home Speeds Off the Line

You don't build a car in the driveway, so why build a house on a lot? The concept of building houses the way we build cars (assembly-line fashion in fac- tories) is not new, or untried. It is, in fact, rapidly gaining recognition as the modern method of construction that has many important advan- tages over conventional home building. Last year, in this country, an estimated 290,000 housing units (single-family homes and multi-family apartments) were factory-produced. A 20% hike to 350,000 units is predicted for 1971—not including some 400,000 manufactured mobile homes. In Europe, factories have been successfully produc- ing all types of buildings, from homes to hospitals, since the end of World War II. Russia is the largest producer, with about 640,000 housing units manufactured annually. France manufactures about 60% of its housing, and Eng- land, Denmark and Holland more than 25% each. The technology used to man- ufacture homes in factories is called industrialized, or sys- tems, building. It is similar to that used to produce automo- biles in two ways. First, it em- ploys a variety of highly-autom- ated tools and materials hand- ling equipment. Second, it breaks down complicated op- erations into a series of sim- pler, repetitive jobs that can be done on an assembly-line basis. In industrialized building, the major components or the

NOW YOU CAN BE A WINDOW EXPERT

What do you know about windows? That they open and close and keep out the weather—and not much else, probably. If you're building, buying or remodeling a house, make a point of looking at instead of through the windows in a few houses. They form a major element of both the construc- tion and appearance of a home. And if you've ever sat near a drafty window, or washed, painted and repaired storm windows, you'll under- stand the value of quality wood windows equipped with insulating glass. Ponderosa pine window units, carefully designed, con- structed, and preservative- treated in factory-controlled conditions, consist of the fol- lowing basic elements: Sash—the sections that hold panes of glass. In working win- dows the sash move; in fixed windows they are stationary. It's the sash that makes a vital difference in window quality. Metal conducts heat; wood is a natural insulating material. Heat escapes easily through metal window sash, causing uncomfortable drafts and messy condensation. Win- dow sash of ponderosa pine prevent heat from escaping. Additionally, wood does not corrode or pit, it has great dimensional stability, and per- mits tight closures. Rails—horizontal sections of sash above and below the glass. Stiles—vertical sections of sash at each side of the glass. Glazing—window glass, or panes, which may be single, double, or even triple. Double- glazing, or insulating glass, is available in stock ponderosa pine windows to keep heat in- doors in winter. Two sheets of glass sealed at the edges hold a layer of insulating air that greatly reduces heat loss. The inner pane remains warm in all but the most frigid temperatures, preventing moisture condensation and dripping. Windows with insulating glass eliminate the need for separate storm sash in most climates. In unusually cold areas, triple glazing is used. Muntins—slender bars be- tween the lights, or panes, in multi-paned windows. Removable grilles—simu- lated muntins. Ponderosa pine windows with removable grilles are much easier to wash and paint, yet they have the same traditional charm. Available in diamond or rectangular pat- terns. Frame—boxlike structure that attaches to house wall and includes these window mem- bers: Header—horizontal top section of frame. Jamb—vertical side sec- tions of frame. Sill—horizontal lower member of frame. Stool—horizontal piece ap- plied over interior of sill and projecting beyond it to form a ledge. Generally called the window sill. Apron—trim applied under the stool (interior window sill). Sometimes omitted in tempo- rary homes. Casing—trim, similar to apron, applied at top and sides of window to integrate it with the wall. Stops—narrow strips at- tached to inside of frame to hold or guide sash. Casement, awning and hopper windows close against the stops; double- hung and gliding windows move within them. Weatherstripping—material applied to form tight closure between sash and frame. It prevents infiltration of cold air and the escape of warm air in winter. Weatherstripping is an intrinsic part of stock wood windows. Hardware—locks, hinges and openers such as rotary operators on casements. Ponderosa pine windows are factory- equipped with precision-made hardware. Stock wood window units, available at local building supply centers, are preservative- treated and ready to install and finish. The only parts listed in this glossary that are not included are the apron and casing, which are supplied by the builder or contractor, and muntins, which are replaced by removable grilles. Grilles and screens are optional.

When is a frame not a frame? When it's a casing. You can talk windows with your builder like an expert if you learn these names of the members of a stock ponderosa pine unit. Except for the trim (casing, apron and stool), all the parts of this double-hung window were made, preservative treated, and assembled in the factory.

Think Warm If Planning New Home

If you're buying or remodel- ing a house in warm weather, think ahead to frigid winter days. If the thermostat's set high and your ankles still turn blue from icy drafts, your heating budget will go into the red.

What causes toe-curling drafts? Most people believe they're from air seeping through cracks. Not always true. Infiltration of cold air is a minor cause.

Usually drafts result from heat escaping by conduction right through solid walls, doors and windows. Even a tight house can be drafty enough to "curdle your blood" in chilly weather.

That's where building ma- terials with good insulating properties come in. Heat passes easily through some materials such as metal. Others—wood, for example—are natural in- sulators that prevent the es- cape of heat.

To preserve comfort and cut heating costs, wise homeown- ers demand building products that insulate. They can insist on thorough insulation in walls and ceilings that more than meets FHA minimum require- ments. And they can specify double-glazed wood windows and patio doors. Otherwise a tremendous amount of heat can be lost through these ma- jor areas of a house.

Stock windows and patio doors, factory-made of ponderosa pine, come in many styles and sizes and are readily avail- able at local building supply centers throughout the coun- try. The wood sash stay warm

NEWS AND VIEWS . . .

And What Have You

By BOB CRAIG

The Pied Pipers will open the fall football season here in Piper Stadium Friday evening against the Winters Blizzards and before what we would like to see — a standing room only crowd.

These youngsters have been working hard for the past three weeks getting ready for this game and they need the support of everyone in Hamlin for this opener.

This will be a young team this year with a lot of sophomores and one freshman on it and they will likely make a lot of mistakes in the early part of the season but from what I have seen they will more than make up for this in desire. They want to win — but they need your support.

They have some good seniors and junior playing to give them the needed leadership, but what they need most of all is a few winning games behind them to jell into a strong ballclub.

So, please, make a special effort to come out to the game Friday and give these youngsters the support they deserve.

Cong. Omar Burleson, in his weekly newsletter this week touches on something this week that seems to us to be one of the major problems facing this nation today. It is, we feel, the main reason we have so many other unsolvable problems facing us today.

Cong. Burleson's newsletter follows:

—Members of Congress returning to Washington this week after an August recess, bring back a common comment. People back home are disturbed about a great many things — inflation, schools, crime and drugs, the war — to mention a few.

Justified or not, it seems we are mired in an age of disbelief which is eroding our will as a Nation and as individuals, not only to succeed but to survive.

Sons do not believe fathers, blacks do not believe whites and vice versa. Stockholders do not believe corporate executives, and citizens have grave doubts about their government at all levels. Even clergymen are doubted because of the militant acts of a few.

Does this sense of despair and skepticism really mater? It certainly does if we believe that this Country was built on self-confidence, a price in its past and a faith in the future. A great nation without self-confidence is as unlikely to continue its greatness as a businessman who is without determination.

As has been said in this space before, likely Government has promised too much to too many. When these expectations failed to materialize in a short time, many people seem to lack the maturity to deal with adversity.

Black Leaders castigate the whole system of Government as racist because inequalities and prejudices persist. The fact that great comparative gains have been made is overlooked.

Civil Libertarians characterize our Government as "repressive." They ignore all evidence that never in history has there been a freer age than this.

Many of the young disparage society as "unresponsive." The fact is, never has a society been more oriented towards child welfare and the young than today.

In short, there seems to be missing in our society that sense of proportion upon which all good and healthy conditions depend.

Our rivals on the world scene — the Russians and Red Chinese — are able, determined, thirsting, and are evidently endowed with a strong sense of purpose, of destiny, and, yes, patriotism. They have their

Post Office Extends First Class One-Day Service

Postmaster Bobby Crowley, amplifying on a new mail service program recently announced by Washington headquarters, today identified local areas which are to receive overnight delivery of first-class mail originating within the Hamlin area.

Postmaster Crowley said nine areas contiguous to Hamlin will benefit from the next-day deliveries under a new mail service goal announced by Postmaster General Winton M. Blount.

These areas, Postmaster Crowley said, include the following Zip Code areas, 792, 793, 797, 769, 768, 764, 760, and 763 along with the parent area of 795.

Postmaster General Blount on Aug. 26, unveiled the Postal Services new goal of overnight delivery of local area first-class mail deposited by 5 p.m.

"The Postmaster General has pointed out that this program will affect more than half of all first-class letter mail sent in the United States," Postmaster Crowley said. "So customers of every post office in the country will be benefitting from the new service goal."

Substantially more than half of the 52 billion pieces of first-class mail handled annually are for delivery in the city where deposited or in nearby communities.

The areas outlined today by Postmaster Crowley are those within which next-day delivery will be provided for ZIP-Coded first-class mail deposited by 5 p.m. on weekdays in business areas, and at collection points at the local post office.

The Postal Service set Oct. 31 as the deadline for achieving the 95 percent goal.

Pipers To Open Here With Winters Friday

The Pied Pipers will open their football season here Friday evening at 8 p.m. in Piper Stadium against the always strong Winters Blizzards.

Both teams made strong showings last week in scrimmages with Hamlin defeating Aspermont and Winters defeating Breckenridge.

Coach Wright told the Booster Club members that the team needs to win this one to gain their confidence and that they have been working and thinking about Winters since they first started workouts over three weeks ago.

The Pipers scored five times against the outclassed Aspermont Hornets in their scrimmage there last Friday. They rolled up 195 yards on the ground and 173 in the air. teachers outnumber soldiers and literacy moves forward in gigantic steps. This has brought efforts for the gospel to an all time high.

FROM THE FILES . . .

FORTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
(September 7, 1928)

The readers of the Herald will notice in this week's paper the announcement of the Offield Furniture Company.

The Wilson building is to be his Hamlin place of business. This house has been overhauled and the furniture side fixed especially for big display, with balcony and other features.

The Herald takes this opportunity to tell our visitors how much Hamlin people appreciate the wonderful spirit of friendship and congeniality that was evident everywhere at the Jubilee here last Friday. Hamlin had ample police force but few were needed. There was not reported a single car wreck or case of theft and only a few cases of "too much extract," one little fight. Hamlin likes her neighbors and some day she's 'a gonta' pull another big'un. Listen for it.

If you count crowds, and a perfect day as marks of success, Hamlin should be patted on the back for the part she played as host to our neighbors on last Friday when we celebrated in honor of the discovery of oil and the coming of gas to this community.

As per schedule, Hamlin firms put on a good parade at ten-thirty that morning. This part of the program was especially enjoyed, however, the Post Kid Band failed to get here as per schedule. They started in plenty of time but got in mud holes between Rotan and Clairmont, but they finally arrived about 12 o'clock.

In the parade was a float from the farm of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Palmer. It represented everything grown on their farm, and that meant one of the finest display ever seen on Hamlin's street. Vegetable, fresh and canned, fruits, cotton, maize peanuts, chickens, eggs, butter, milk, pretty white pigs — all going to prove that Hamlin's greatest wealth despite the oil discovery, lies on the farm. Yes, this float won first prize.

TEN YEARS AGO
(September 14, 1961)

Plans are now underway for the seventh annual Homecoming for exes of the Hamlin Schools to be held October 6 and 7.

According to a spokesman for the planning committee, it is hoped that all exes of the Hamlin Schools will start making plans now to attend and will urge others to "talk Homecoming" so that together we might make this the best homecoming ever.

The first bale of cotton for the Hamlin Gin was ginned Monday about 1 p.m. at the Hamlin Farmers Coop Gin, according to a report from Watt Fletcher, gin manager.

A. J. Dipple, whose farm is located north of the bridge between here and Old Glory, brought in the 2,150 lbs. of cotton which ginned out a 530 lb. bale.

Dipple was first in the area to bring in a bale of cotton last year.

The Hamlin freshman football team will open their season here tonight with the freshman of Colorado City.

Game time is set for 7:30.

Seeking their third win of the season against no losses, the Pipers take on the Merkel Badgers Friday night at 8 p.m. at Merkel. The Badgers will be trying for their first win of the 1961 campaign.

The Pied Piper Booster Club is planning to form a caravan to the game Friday night with those interested meeting at the high school between 6:15 and 6:30.

The Jones County Home Demonstration Clubs won second place and $75 for their educational exhibit on Senior Citizen's at the West Texas State Fair in Abilene.

And What Have You
By BOB CRAIG

problems, no doubt about that, but their national and international goals and ambitions appear to be intact, uneaten by the cancer of disbelief.

No suggestion or even inference is being made that we should blindly trust all the cliches and slogans which constantly bombard us — it is our inherent right, duty and responsibility to seek truth on which to base our trust. In fact, the acceptance of "everyone knows" such and such may be contributing to our disturbance. A recent development may be a good example. Since Rachel Carson's book "Silent Spring" "everyone has known" that DDT is an awful thing. Now Mr. Philip Handler, President of the prestigious National Academy of Sciences says that no harm to humans has been proved and "the tales of damage to fish and wildlife appear to have been woefully exaggerated." A dozen or so top ranking scientists support this opinion. In this instance "what everyone knows" is wrong. The application can doubtless be made in many other correct situations.

Ben Johnson once observed that "next to truth, a confirmed error does well."

Back to our doubts, fears and distrust, just maybe we need to recapture what seems to be our last innocence. Putting it another way, maybe our sophistication has run away with us.

Referring to us as a nation, Emerson said, "We should have reached a maturity to prove that we are capable of listening, not only to what the hours tell us, but what centuries whisper."

If choosing the right plants for the right situations has you puzzled, here are some suggestions:

North windows: Dieffenbachia, Peperomia or Philodendron. These plants do best away from direct sunlight.

South windows: Ageratum, Coleus, Lilies, Cacti. Full light is the main requisite for these plants.

East and west windows: Caladium, Dracaena, Ferns, Fuchsia.

If your particular decorating situation will impose poor conditions of temperature, light or moisture, here are some of the more rugged varieties to try: Coleus, Dieffenbachia, Dracaena, Philodendron or Palms.

The gardenia, a perennial corsage favorite, makes up into a dramatic and handsome centerpiece, according to floral designers. Other popular arrangements which go from table to shoulder in an interesting double-play include the spectacular carnation in all its brilliant shades, and the delicate yet commanding red, red rose.

The chrysanthemum, "first flower of Fall," is probably the most popular "double-duty." Available in a wide variety of colors and varieties

SOMEBODY CARES

It is so important that someone cares about how this child grows up. Someone cares that she is clothed and fed and loved. Someone cares that she goes to school and grows in mind as well as body. Someone cares about her childhood wonder and curiosity and wants to see them

satisfied. Someone cares enough to teach her to love other people and will help her in her relations with them.

Someone cares about her spirit and desires for her

the highest ideals and standards, and will help her to know God. Are you this someone?

Let it be said of her as it was said of Him,

"And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man." Luke 2:52.

TAKE
THIS WEEK

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Plants and
Home Decor

Use living plants as decorative aids in your home. Plants with rich coloring and textures often makes the difference between an attractive room and an outstanding one.

Certainly, growing plants create an air of vitality, and give a feeling of care to any room in which they are used. But more than that, they can also be used to emphasize or soften certain things about a room.

Neinda Philosopher Is Aghast At Viet Nam Rule Against Handshaking

Editor's note: The Neinda Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Route One discovers a peculiar custom in use in Viet Nam.

Dear editor:

I was reading along in a newspaper last night not thinking much about what I was reading, you know, like a man listening to his wife carrying on a conversation with him while his mind is on tomorrow, when I hit a paragraph that made me sit bolt upright.

According to it, when you're campaigning for office in Viet Nam you can't shake hands with more than five people in one place without risking getting arrested for disturbing the peace.

That's exactly what it said, and I believe it's worse than the other practice they have over there, you know, looking up your opponent if you win the election. After all, it's sort of a universal habit not to care much what happens to a defeated candidate, regardless of what country he gets beat in. How many defeated candidates for Vice President can you name?

But can you imagine what would happen to a candidate in the United States if he was limited to five handshakes in one place?

I have never understood it, but it's pretty well established that the candidate who shakes the most hands gets the most votes, makes no difference what office he's running for or whatever other qualifications the office demands. An American running in Viet Nam, left handclasp-less, would collapse in frustration from sheer lack of a platform.

Has Congress looked into the matter of how many returning Viet Nam veterans have picked up this no-handshaking habit?

It may be allright to Viet-namize Viet Nam, but you introduce that handshake limitation over here and you'll wreck our political system.

In fact, the handshake is such an effective medium for getting elected, even more effective than television which charges big for its services, that I don't see why the voters don't catch on and cash in on it. Charge say 15 cents per handshake, and double if he gets to you twice at the same rally.

Why should the most effective medium for getting elected, owned entirely by the people, allow candidates to use its services scott free?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Now Mr. Philip Handler, President of the prestigious National Academy of Sciences says that no harm to humans has been proved and "the tales of damage to fish and wildlife appear to have been woefully exaggerated." A dozen or so top ranking scientists support this opinion. In this instance "what everyone knows" is wrong. The application can doubtless be made in many other correct situations.

Ben Johnson once observed that "next to truth, a confirmed error does well."

Back to our doubts, fears and distrust, just maybe we need to recapture what seems to be our last innocence. Putting it another way, maybe our sophistication has run away with us.

Referring to us as a nation, Emerson said, "We should have reached a maturity to prove that we are capable of listening, not only to what the hours tell us, but what centuries whisper."

Plants and Home Decor

Use living plants as decorative aids in your home. Plants with rich coloring and textures often makes the difference between an attractive room and an outstanding one.

Certainly, growing plants create an air of vitality, and give a feeling of care to any room in which they are used. But more than that, they can also be used to emphasize or soften certain things about a room.

If choosing the right plants for the right situations has you puzzled, here are some suggestions:

North windows: Dieffenbachia, Peperomia or Philodendron. These plants do best away from direct sunlight.

South windows: Ageratum, Coleus, Lilies, Cacti. Full light is the main requisite for these plants.

East and west windows: Caladium, Dracaena, Ferns, Fuchsia. If your particular decorating situation will impose poor conditions of temperature, light or moisture, here are some of the more rugged varieties to try: Coleus, Dieffenbachia, Dracaena, Philodendron or Palms.

The gardenia, a perennial corsage favorite, makes up into a dramatic and handsome centerpiece, according to floral designers. Other popular arrangements which go from table to shoulder in an interesting double-play include the spectacular carnation in all its brilliant shades, and the delicate yet commanding red, red rose.

The chrysanthemum, "first flower of Fall," is probably the most popular "double-duty." Available in a wide variety of colors and varieties

SOMEBODY CARES

It is so important that someone cares about how this child grows up. Someone cares that she is clothed and fed and loved. Someone cares that she goes to school and grows in mind as well as body. Someone cares about

her childhood wonder and curiosity and wants to see them

satisfied. Someone cares enough to teach her to love other people and will help her in her relations with them.

Someone cares about her spirit and desires for her

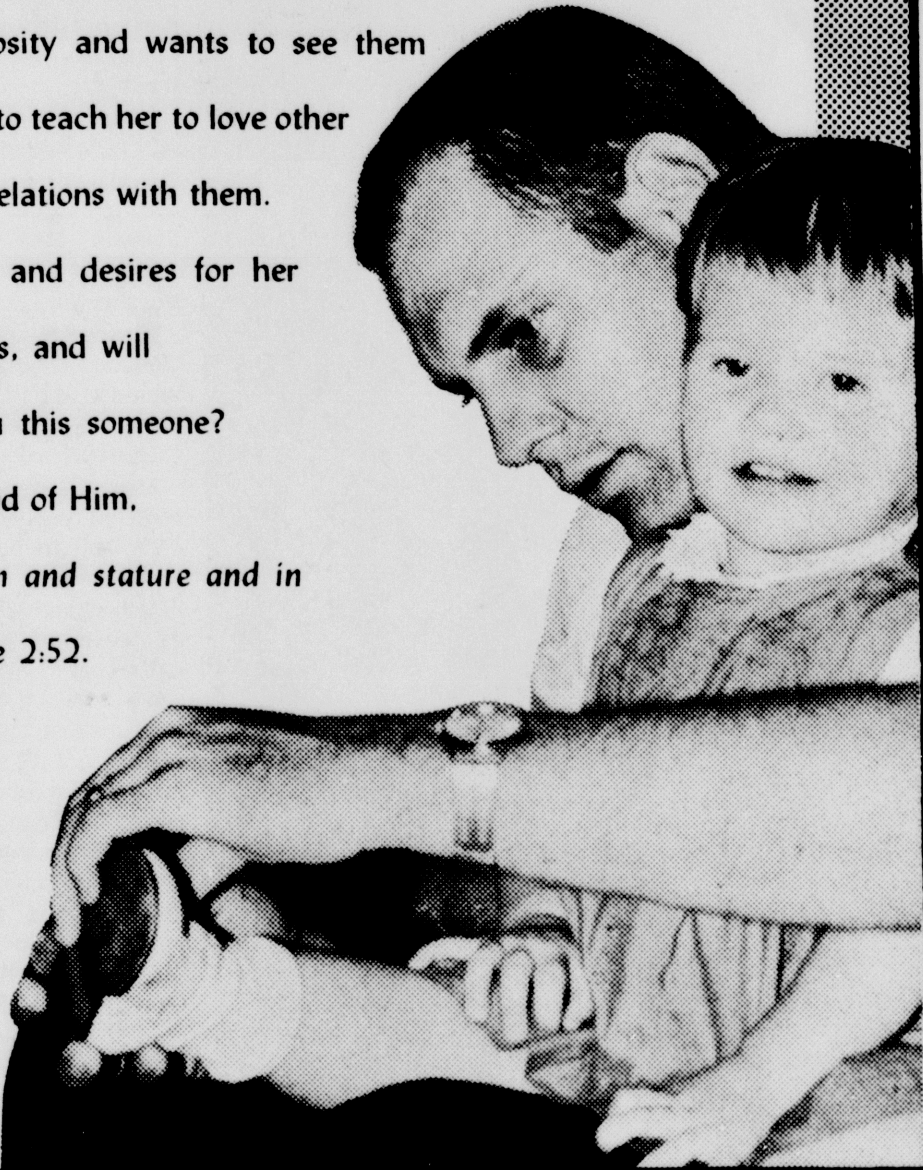

the highest ideals and standards, and will help her to know God. Are you this someone?

Let it be said of her as it was said of Him.

"And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man." Luke 2:52.

TAKE
THIS WEEK

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Neinda Philosopher Is Aghast At Viet Nam Rule Against Handshaking

Editor's note: The Neinda Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Route One discovers a peculiar custom in use in Viet Nam.

Dear editor:

I was reading along in a newspaper last night not thinking much about what I was reading, you know, like a man listening to his wife carrying on a conversation with him while his mind is on tomorrow, when I hit a paragraph that made me sit bolt upright.

According to it, when you're campaigning for office in Viet Nam you can't shake hands with more than five people in one place without risking getting arrested for disturbing the peace.

That's exactly what it said, and I believe it's worse than the other practice they have over there, you know, looking up your opponent if you win the election. After all, it's sort of a universal habit not to care much what happens to a defeated candidate, regardless of what country he gets beat in. How many defeated candidates for Vice President can you name?

But can you imagine what would happen to a candidate in the United States if he was limited to five handshakes in one place?

I have never understood it, but it's pretty well established that the candidate who shakes the most hands gets the most votes, makes no difference what office he's running for or whatever other qualifications the office demands. An American running in Viet Nam, left handclasp-less, would collapse in frustration from sheer lack of a platform.

Has Congress looked into the matter of how many returning Viet Nam veterans have picked up this no-handshaking habit?

It may be allright to Viet-namize Viet Nam, but you introduce that handshake limitation over here and you'll wreck our political system.

In fact, the handshake is such an effective medium for getting elected, even more effective than television which charges big for its services, that I don't see why the voters don't catch on and cash in on it. Charge say 15 cents per handshake, and double if he gets to you twice at the same rally.

Why should the most effective medium for getting elected, owned entirely by the people, allow candidates to use its services scott free?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Systems-Built Home Speeds Off the Line

You don't build a car in the driveway, so why build a house on a lot?

The concept of building houses the way we build cars (assembly-line fashion in fac- tories) is not new, or untried. It is, in fact, rapidly gaining recognition as the modern method of construction that has many important advan- tages over conventional home building.

Last year, in this country, an estimated 290,000 housing units (single-family homes and multi-family apartments) were factory-produced. A 20% hike to 350,000 units is predicted for 1971—not including some 400,000 manufactured mobile homes. In Europe, factories have been successfully produc- ing all types of buildings, from homes to hospitals, since the end of World War II. Russia is the largest producer, with about 640,000 housing units manufactured annually. France manufactures about 60% of its housing, and Eng- land, Denmark and Holland more than 25% each.

The technology used to man- ufacture homes in factories is called industrialized, or sys- tems, building. It is similar to that used to produce automo- biles in two ways. First, it em- ploys a variety of highly-auto- mated tools and materials han- dling equipment. Second, it breaks down complicated op- erations into a series of sim- pler, repetitive jobs that can be done on an assembly-line basis.

In industrialized building, the major components or the modules that make up a home or other building are factory produced. These may range from floor slabs and wall pan- els to fully-equipped kitchen modules, living-dining room modules, and modules consist- ing of several bedrooms. They are shipped, usually by truck or train, to a building site where the foundation has al- ready been prepared. There they are assembled by special cranes and handling equip- ment into a complete struc- ture. Since factory-built homes also have pre-installed utility systems, it's a matter of simple hook-ups to provide water, gas and electricity. The family can move right in.

The most obvious benefit is fast production: two weeks or less for a factory-built home compared to three months or more for a conventionally- built one. Other benefits exist, of which homeowners may not be aware. For instance, plant production allows better qual- ity control, more efficient use of labor, elimination of weath- er delays, and greater volume—a vital consideration in meeting the nation's serious building shortage.

Housing is not the only area in which industrialized build- ing is expected to make sizeable inroads. Multi-story residen- tial, commercial and institu- tional construction will all be beneficiaries of a more modern technology. All the various ap- plications of industrial- ized building will be examined at the second Industrialized Building Exposition and Con- gress, Oct. 31 to Nov. 4, at the Kentucky Exposition Center in Louisville. More than 15,000 professionals from build- ing and allied fields are expected to attend.

INBEX/71 is sponsored by the building industry publica- tions of the Cahners Company in cooperation with the Na- tional Association of Building Manufacturers. The center for attendance information is Cahners, 5 South Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60603.

Couples Return From Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Baker and her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Jones of Abilene, returned Sunday from a 17-day vacation which included points of interest in Arizona, California, Nevada, Utah, Colorado and New Mexico. While in Vacaville, Calif., they visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vinson and family. Mrs. Vinson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Baker's niece.

In Yuba City, Calif., they visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Greathouse.

Returning by the way of Farmington, N. Mex., they attended the wedding of the Joneses' son, Bob Jones, and Louise Owens Friday evening.

NOW YOU CAN BE A WINDOW EXPERT

What do you know about windows? That they open and close and keep out the weather—and not much else, probably. If you're building, buying or remodeling a house, make a point of looking at instead of through the windows in a few houses. They form a major element of both the construction and appearance of a home. And if you've ever sat near a drafty window, or washed, painted and repaired storm windows, you'll under- stand the value of quality wood windows equipped with insulating glass.

Ponderosa pine window units, carefully designed, con- structed, and preservative- treated in factory-controlled conditions, consist of the fol- lowing basic elements:

Sash—the sections that hold panes of glass. In working win- dows the sash move; in fixed windows they are stationary.

It's the sash that makes a vital difference in window quality. Metal conducts heat; wood is a natural insulating material. Heat escapes easily through metal window sash, causing uncomfortable drafts and messy condensation. Win- dow sash of ponderosa pine prevent heat from escaping. Additionally, wood does not corrode or pit, it has great dimensional stability, and per- mits tight closures.

Rails—horizontal sections of sash above and below the glass.

Stiles—vertical sections of sash at each side of the glass.

Glazing—window glass, or panes, which may be single, double, or even triple. Double- glazing, or insulating glass, is available in stock ponderosa pine windows to keep heat in- doors in winter. Two sheets of glass sealed at the edges hold a layer of insulating air that greatly reduces heat loss. The inner pane remains warm in all but the most frigid temperatures, preventing moisture condensation and dripping. Windows with insulating glass eliminate the need for separate storm sash in most climates. In unusually cold areas, triple glazing is used.

Muntins—slender bars be- tween the lights, or panes, in multi-paned windows.

Removable grilles—simu- lated muntins. Ponderosa pine windows with removable grilles are much easier to wash and paint, yet they have the same traditional charm. Available in diamond or rectangular pat- terns.

Frame—boxlike structure that attaches to house wall and includes these window mem- bers:

Header—horizontal top section of frame.

Jamb—vertical side sec- tions of frame.

Sill—horizontal lower member of frame.

Stool—horizontal piece ap- plied over interior of sill and projecting beyond it to form a ledge. Generally called the window sill.

Apron—trim applied under the stool (interior window sill). Sometimes omitted in contem- porary homes.

Casing—trim, similar to apron, applied at top and sides of window to integrate it with the wall.

Stops—narrow strips at- tached to inside of frame to hold or guide sash. Casement, awning and hopper windows close against the stops; dou- bling and gliding windows move within them.

Weatherstripping—material applied to form tight closure between sash and frame. It prevents infiltration of cold air and the escape of warm air in winter. Weatherstripping is an intrinsic part of stock wood windows.

Hardware—locks, hinges and openers such as rotary operators on casements. Ponderosa pine windows are factory- equipped with precision-made hardware.

When is a frame not a frame? When it's a casing. You can talk windows with your builder like an expert if you learn these names of the members of a stock ponderosa pine unit. Except for the trim (casing, apron and stool), all the parts of this double-hung window were made, preservative treated, and assembled in the factory.

Stock wood window units, available at local building supply centers, are preservative- treated and ready to install and finish. The only parts listed in this glossary that are not included are the apron and casing, which are supplied by the builder or contractor, and muntins, which are replaced by removable grilles. Grilles and screens are optional.

"curdle your blood" in chilly inside because they keep heat in the house, and if the win- dows and patio doors are double-glazed, the layer of in- sulating air sealed between two panes of glass also prevents the escape of heat. Built-in in- sulating glass in wood windows eliminates the need for storm windows.

To preserve comfort and cut heating costs, wise homeown- ers demand building products that insulate. They can insist on thorough insulation in walls and ceilings that more than meets FHA minimum require- ments. And they can specify double-glazed wood windows and patio doors. Otherwise a tremendous amount of heat can be lost through these ma- jor areas of a house.

Stock windows and patio doors, factory-made of ponderosa pine, come in many styles and sizes and are readily avail- able at local building supply centers throughout the coun- try. The wood sash stay warm
